Copyright Disclaimer:* I don’t own Mario, Luigi, Princess Peach, Bowser or the Koopalings since they are made by Nintendo. Adaptation loosely based on Hotel Mario game by Philips which they also made Rhinestone Goomba, Z-Koopa and other enemies plus the hotels.

My comments: Ahhh... Hotel Mario. A game that most Mario fans don't even know about it, it was made on the cd-i that featured animation cutscenes and a remote controller 13 years before the Nintendo Wii. I haven't even played the game but seen pictures and a review about it, so this is as close to the game as possible but lots different in a way.

Hotel Mario - Episode 1: Morton's WoodDoor-Hysteria Hotel

Mario, Luigi and Princess Peach are having a picnic on Koopa Troopa Beach with the yellow sands and palmtrees across the area. While laying down on some beach towels, Princess Peach decided to have a walkabout to sight see in Koopa Troopa Beach. Suddenly she had disappeared into thin air. The Mario Brothers then got up and was scratching their heads. Mario asked his younger brother, "Where is Princess Toadstool?" "Hope she would get us some pasta", replied Luigi.
The red/blue Italian plumber then found a strange brown object on the other side of the beach.
Mario thought, "We should investigate that brown object over there and leave the towels to some nearby Mushroomers."
"Great idea", quickly replied Luigi.
Mario and Luigi decided to leave their part of Koopa Troopa Beach and walked very slowly walked towards the brown object, however each step the Mario Brothers made the sky got darker and darker. They keeped walking for about twenty minutes until they found their destination. The sky was as black as pitch and a giant brown door with the sign; King Koopa's Rez- sort.
Luigi was terrified and spoke, "I hope Princess Toadstool isn't in that holiday resort".
"Relax, hey there is a note on the door", shouted Mario.

The note read: Dear Pesky Plumbers, I or should we say the Koopalings have kidnapped your precious Princess and she is at Morton's hotel. If you don't close all the doors in the hotels, she is doomed. Hahah. Signed Bowser.

Luigi got nit-picky and whispered, "How come Bowser can write a perfectly good letter yet his resort name is spelt wrong and it has King Koopa instead of Bowser?"
"I honestly don't know why there are mistakes already but at least we know what to do to save Princess Toadstool from that reptile", blurbed out Mario.
Luigi was putting his fingers on his chin thinking of something that would be useful or not to go into Morton's hotel. Mario stood very still while waiting for his brother to think of an idea.
Luigi rose his arm and shouted, "Hey I've got an idea."
"What is it Luigi?", Mario asked.
The green/blue dressed plumber looked at the trail that the Mario Brothers were walking on and replied back, "Why can't we do a tip for the readers?"

Mario was scratching and adjusting his cap trying to think of what readers Luigi was refering to but his brother pointed out some Mushroomers about two kilometres away. He later answered back, "Great idea, where did you get it from?"

While it was easier to tell his older brother it was cartoons, Luigi thought that he should be specific just in case that Mario would ask the certain titles. The green plumber took a deep breath and spoke, "Right, He-Man, Inspector Gadget, G.I. Joe, your rival Sonic and Sailor...."

Mario interrupted Luigi, he then stared directly in front of Luigi making a pose and said, "Look for tree rot on your furniture, Mario Says."

However his brother was annoyed that he interrupted his cartoon list but also gave the advice at the wrong time and sarcastically replied, "Why do you do the PSA at the beginning and not at the end?"

This caused Mario to move back to near the entrance of King Koopa's Rez- sort, the Italian plumber then rubbed his eyebrows and spoke, "Unlike Sonic Sez, it makes people alert Luigi."

The other Italian plumber then made a pose similar to Mario and bellowed out, "Also folks, you should read any instruction manuals before playing games, buying electrical items and so on."

After giving their speeches, Mario and Luigi opened the front door which made an awful creaking sound. The plumbers walked and walked in the dirt track until they came to a hotel that said "Morton's Wood-Door Hysteria". The plumbers looked at each other and gave them a thumbs up.

Mario and Luigi both shouted in unison, "Let's do it!"

The two plumbers then rushed into the hotel entrance and shut the door behind them, however all the Mario Brothers could see was blackness.

Mario bellowed out, "I hate loading times... there, much better."

As soon as Mario finished the sentence, the hotel was lit up. Everything in the building was made of wood which was brown and grainy, the hotel resembled a treehouse and the smell was pine.

"Let's close all 100 doors", spoke Luigi in a monotonal voice.

So Mario and Luigi started to close all one hundred doors in the hotel starting with the Ground floor. Mario closed the first door, Luigi closed the second door but the third door was jammed.

Mario shouted, "Get me some WD-40!" The Italian plumber then slammed the door and continued, "Nevermind."

Suddenly a Goomba marched out of Door 4, Luigi leaped onto the Goomba but had to wait a second before he had squished the enemy and then quickly closed the door.

Mario sighed for no reason, "Stupid controller delays".

The older plumber closed doors five, seven and nine while Luigi closed doors six, eight and ten. The plumbers looked relieved that all the doors are closed on the Ground Floor.
"10 down, only 90 to go", breathed out Luigi.

Mario and Luigi then got onto a ladder to climb to the First Floor with ease while the green caped plumber wiped his head since he had spotted an elevator. The plumbing duo again took the odd and even approach. Mario closed doors 11,13,15,17,19 while Luigi closed doors 12,14,16 and 18 which took them fifteen seconds. However a Wiggler came out of Door Twenty which was in name instead of number for a change marching towards the brothers. They got hold on Wiggler but his face had started to turn red which he forced Mario and Luigi to get off him. Suddenly Luigi got hold of Wiggler's tail and swung it towards an open window.

Wiggler sighed, "This is an awful vacation, oops I'm a goner."

While Wiggler left the hotel, Luigi quickly closed Door Twenty and got a key which he locked it just in case he came back.

Mario spoke, "Let's go on the elevator".
"Yeah, Elevator Action", chuckled Luigi as he was trying to make a bad joke.

So the Italian plumbers got hold on the elevator to reach the Second Floor which Luigi saw a coin in Door 30 and collected it. Mario closed all the odd numbered doors while Luigi closed the even numbered doors.
Mario shouted, "This is getting repetitive!"
"Agreed but we still have seventy more doors to go", replied Luigi.

The Mario brothers got hold of a ladder to reach the Third Floor however on the hallway a Koopa Troopa came out marching up and down.
Mario bellowed out in joy, "Finally some action!"

The red capped plumber jumped on the Koopa Troopa which only the shell was remaining so Luigi got hold of the shell and fired it into the direction of the doors that sucessfully closed all ten doors on the floor.
Luigi panted, "Up to the Fourth Floor".

The plumbing duo then closed eight of the doors when Mario and Luigi found a Starman in Doors 49 and 50.
Mario shouted, "Star power come to me otherwise you go to Japanese based shows".

The red capped and the green capped brothers are invincible and quickly closed Doors 51 to 80 while wiping out four Goombas, 3 Koopa Troopas and a Wiggler in the process as they run up the steps. One by one, Mario and Luigi closed all the doors from 81 to 100 and they were exhausted.

Mario exhaustly spoke, "Ooof... I hope we don't close all these doors again otherwise I get repetitive syndrome."
"Same here Mario, let's condemn this hotel", Luigi replied.

Suddenly a laughing sound was coming from the Pentahouse Suite in Floor 10 so the plumbers opened the Door that said Morton's Treehouse O' Pain to see a Koopaling who was orange with a grey head laughing while waiting for the background to appear.
Morton blurbed out, "Welcome to my... I mean Morton's Tree House 'O Pain, the O stands for of pain which is what you become after I ruled Donut Plains last year, soon you would be defeated, beat feet, vamooshed, squashed, squished, thrashed, trashed, exterminated, okay plumbers?"

"Shut up Big-Mouth!", shouted Mario on top of his voice and got his hammer which only reached the Koopaling's hair.

Luigi then decided to double ground pound on Morton's head and the Koopaling started to feel pain. Morton spoke, "I have a massive headache, you two can have Princess Toadstool but wait until Roy has in store."

The red capped plumber pressed a button that said Eject and Morton elevated to sky and falls out of his Treehouse. The Koopaling landed on some thorns and yelps, "Wahahhah, I'm been fallen out of a tree!"

Luigi untied Princess Toadstool and were heading out of the hotel which suddenly disappeared out of thin air.

Mario asked, "How come it disappeared like that?"
"Must be the same reason as Koopa's Rez-sort", his brother replied.

A/N: Episode 1 is complete and episode 2: Roy's Hard-Brick Hotel will be hopefully done by Mario vs. Donkey Kong 2. However there is a story (the Turbo OutRun crossover) which is partly done but one of the characters is one I do not like and the other I only remember from when I was 5 or something. Luckily Sonic is going to be there and one is know a little bit Captain N.